Davismen Win Two From Gladwyne By Close Scores in Title Quest

Narberth Beats KeyNels, 2-1 and 5-4, in Final League Playoffs

THIRD GAME SATURDAY

A one-run margin jinx that has pursued Gladwyne throughout the season in the team's meetings with Narberth, continued into the league championship series last week-end when the Davismen nosed out the KeyNels 2-1 and 5-4.

This Saturday's game is to be played at the borough playfield. If Gladwyne wins, the fourth game Sunday will be at Gladwyne. Should Narberth capture tomorrow's encounter the series will be over.

All the championship games, after the first at Gladwyne, were to be played in Narberth according to agreement, but Gladwyne's request for another home game if there is a fourth contest was granted by Walter Hanley, president of the Main Line Baseball League.

Hanley deplored as a "disgraceful affair" a vehement protest by the Narberth players when Harry Fox was called out on a close play in the ninth inning of Sunday's game. During the fracas, pitcher Al Herrmann was banished from the field after he was said to have pushed Umpire Longacre.

Walter Masters, who hurled Saturday's thriller, pitched the last two innings of Sunday's ten-frame game for Al, and gets the credit for winning both.

On Saturday the Davismen made a run each in the first and second and then staved off the Gladwyne threat except in the sixth when the KeyNels scored their lone tally. Both Masters and Georgie Severn were hit freely, but bore down in the pinches.

Sunday's contest saw Narberth trailing 4-0 at the end of the sixth, rally in the stretch inning and in the ninth with two markers each to tie the score, and then grab the winning tally in the tenth to make it two straight.

In order to give better electric service to residents of Narberth and vicinity, the Philadelphia Electric Company this week began laying a new underground circuit cable from Ardmore to Narberth. The new line runs up Elmwood avenue to Narberth avenue, and down Narberth to Merion avenue.

Main Line Float in New York Parade Represents Valley Forge in 1777-78

A float, built by two members of the Harold D. Speakman Post, American Legion, Narberth, was one of the high points of the mammoth parade in New York Tuesday.

Representing Valley Forge in 1777-78, the float was constructed by Charles J. Clarke, post adjutant, of Merion, and Frank Challenger, Narberth, a district deputy commander. Its construction was directed by Harold L. Reese, Wynnewood, ninth district commander and Ray L. Hemmerley, Glenside, district commander-elect.

Carnegie Hero Medal Sought for Man Who Died Rescuing Youth

Lieutenant J. C. Foltz Drowned August 27 in Creek Near Wellsboro

COMMANDED CCC CAMP

Efforts are being made to obtain a Carnegie Medal for heroism for the late Lieutenant Jonathan C. Foltz, Jr., young Narberth officer, who gave his life August 27 to save a man from drowning.

Colonel Horace W. Shelmire, of Wayne, commander of the 312th Field Artillery, revealed this week that an effort to get the Carnegie Medal for the dead officer is being made.

Lieutenant Foltz, commanding a C. C. camp near Wellsboro, leaped into the flood-swollen waters of Kelsey Creek to rescue George Kolt, one of his men, when the latter slipped from a bridge into the stream. Exhausted by his efforts, Lieutenant Foltz was swept down stream by the current, after he had supplied Kolt with an inner tube and aided him to a point of safety.

Foltz, who was 30 years old, was the husband of the former Louise Jones, daughter of Mrs. William J. Jones, of 103 South Narberth avenue, Narberth. He was the father of an 18-months-old daughter.

The young officer's death marked the third time in a few years that tragedy had visited the household. In 1935, W. W. Deacon, husband of the former Helen Jones, was stricken and died at Overbrook Station. Last July, Thomas Wright Jackson, Jr., 31, husband of another sister, Elizabeth, died suddenly of sunstroke during a heat wave.

Horse and Hound Shows This Week at Bryn Mawr

With virtually every hunt club in the East represented, the Bryn Mawr Horse Show, oldest outdoor event of its type in the United States, opened for its forty-first consecutive year on Wednesday. It will continue through Saturday at the Bryn Mawr Polo Club grounds.

At the same time the Bryn Mawr Hound Show, for beagles, foxhounds and basset hounds, began its twenty-first session on grounds adjoining the Polo Club. Other attractions near the clubhouse include a cafeteria, tea garden and refreshment booths, operated by the women's committee on behalf of the Main Line Community Health Association and the Cancer Research Laboratory of the Lankenau Hospital.

Registration for Narberth and Lower Merion Oct. 1-2

Narberth residents will have a further opportunity to register as voters on Friday and Saturday, October 1 and 2, from 10 A. M. to 3 P. M. and from 7 P. M. to 10 P. M., at the Forrest avenue firehouse.

As previously announced, Lower Merion citizens may register at the township building, Ardmore, on the same dates.

The Narberth registration dates were set by the county Registration Commission in response to a petition from borough residents.

Judges Candidates of Three Parties

Jurists Nominated by Republicans, Democrats and Royal Oakers

Official ballot totals in Montgomery County's primaries, as released by Nelson P. Fegley, chairman of the tabulation board, reveal that the two judges seeking re-election will be candidates of three parties on November 2, while William T. Muldrew, third in the Republican contest for prothonotary, is the nominee of the Royal Oak party.

Judge Harold G. Knight, president of the Common Pleas Court and Judge J. Burnett Holland of the Orphans' Court are candidates of the Republican, Democratic and Royal Oak parties.

Totals as announced by the board differed but slightly with the unofficial vote as announced in this newspaper last week. Approximately 43,000 votes were cast by Republicans and 13,500 by Democrats. The Royal Oak party polled three.

County candidates where a contest exists are: Prothonotary, Earl B. Bechtel, Republican; Irwin W. Kehs, Democrat; William T. Muldrew, Royal Oak. Jury Commissioner, Samuel M. Glass, Republican; Joseph A. McElhatton, Democrat; Glass and Michael Mullin tied for Royal Oak nomination.

On the tabulation board were four Main Liners, George Walker, of Ardmore; J. Joseph Roach, of Bala-Cynwyd; Joseph White, of Narberth, and J. Clayton Whitby, of Bryn Mawr.

114-Suite Apartment Building is Planned on Narberth Property

Narberth and Price Avenues to be Site of Three-Unit Structure

SOME HITCH ON PERMIT

A new apartment building to contain 114 suites together with a ninety-car garage is planned for the Robert J. Nash property at Narberth and Price avenues, Narberth.

Plans for the proposed structure were announced this week by William H. Lee, architect for the project which will cost about $400,000. It is to be built by the Master Masons Construction Co., Inc., for the Narberth Apartments Corporation.

Maurice Heilveil will have charge of the construction and Sydney Jelinek, is associate architect.

Modern in design, the three-story apartment would have three connecting units while the garage will be partly underground.

Excavation work has been held up for the time being because the cost of a building permit from the borough has not been settled.

Because the apartment will consist of three units the borough is holding that the fee should be $450. Officials of the companies affected, however, maintain that only $150 should be charged as the units are connected by tunnels and the project should be classed as one building.

Negotiations are at a standstill at present because Narberth's Superintendent of Building, George B. Supple, is on his vacation.

Work, according to Mr. Heilveil, is expected to start within a month. It will be necessary to raze the old Nash residence, which is centered on the property of about three acres.

Standard Time Again

There are three ways of changing from Daylight Saving Time to Eastern Standard Time between Saturday and Sunday.

Stop your clock for an hour. Set your timepiece back an hour. Or, if you think that's bad for the mechanism, set it ahead eleven hours. The idea is to gain sixty minutes' more sleep before you wake up Sunday morning on E. S. T.

Nearly everyone is accustomed to arranging schedules in accordance with the difference in time. But, if you are a commuter, better ask for a new timetable at the railroad station.

Those of you who have been patiently waiting for Tommy Macklin to tell you what he has been seeing through the keyhole will be rewarded with good news. I've been watching Coach Al Adam carving off the rough spots on his new gridiron model and believe you me he is going to offer the public the finest machine in suburban Philadelphia. In fact, the finest gridiron machine that Philadelphia has seen for some time. In other words the Maroon Bulldog is in fighting trim with plenty of speed and plenty of power.

Coach Adam has assembled the best line he has had since coming to Lower Merion some twelve or thirteen years ago. It will average somewhere close to two hundred pounds from end to end and the members are just about as aggressive as the wild bull in a Western Rodeo. Behind this forward wall will line up a fast and intelligent backfield. Several scrimmage sessions have demonstrated that the 1937 Maroon model will be well able to carry the fight to any and all comers who appear on the schedule.

One good reason why there is so much pep and business in the practice sessions is the fact that Coach Dick Mattis sent over some very able sophomores who are about ready for some fast high school football. They were so good that they have kept the veterans on the go day in and day out. You will see many sophomore players in the lineup this fall and everyone of them will be playing like a veteran.

Coach Adam may not agree with all of this pre-season ballyhoo, and I will admit it might interfere somewhat with any player who is inclined to like himself. However, the members of the squad appear to be all business and I think that nice things can be said about them without upsetting their equilibrium.

Unless I'm crossed up between now and game time the starting lineup for this afternoon's battle with Penn Charter at Queen's lane will be: Eric Olsen and Richard McFarland at the wing positions; Bill Burroughs and Clarence Whitfield at tackle; Carl Zeisler and Roly Polilli at guard; Fred Dunlap, a sophomore, at center; Captain Joe Stinger at quarter; Nick Jones and Dick Miller at the halfback posts; and DiBattista at fullback. If DiBattista is unable to play with his ankle injury, Stinger will play fullback and Ben Seavers will call the plays. To help out in the backfield will be Tribet Green, George MacDonald and Bill Strong, all sophomores.

Coach Adam has first class replacement material for every position. In some spots the team is well fortified three deep which means that the machine can roll along in spite of injuries which might occur.

Don't expect too much from Coach Mattis' Junior High team the first part of the season. The Orange and Black sent over twenty-five letter men to the Senior High squad the past year and that left the coaches somewhat shy of good veteran material. However, there are some fine young lads who are out to learn the game and before the season is over, we may confidently expect a smooth working eleven that will take care of itself in the closing games of the schedule.

ACCIDENTS...
planned in advance!

A fall in the bathroom; the slip of a paring knife while preparing dinner; a toddler's tumbling down the stairs; sonny-boy reaching for Dad's razor—these and other household accidents happen so suddenly. One moment the home is quiet and contented, the next all is turmoil! Such are accidents.

And in our living rooms we sometimes discuss the amazing statistics compiled by insurance companies which show that more people are injured each year in the home than in such and such a war or the like!

Somehow or other, we shrug our shoulders and hope it will never happen to us. Probably that's why so many of us out here on the Main Line have never done anything about it.

But if you haven't, many of your neighbors have! They've thrown their support to the Bryn Mawr Hospital. They know that it is their headquarters when accidents strike.

And what a comforting feeling it is to know that such an institution is so close by! Its doors are never closed to the sick or injured. It never takes a holiday. Its mission of comfort for the ill, of relieved pain for the suffering, or refuge for the maimed, is never ended. In 1936, free services rendered to those who could pay nothing and to those who pay partially, amounted to $65,000. This does not include free medical and surgical assistance conservatively estimated at an additional one hundred thousand dollars, or a total of approximately $165,000.00.

Without thought to color, creed or financial status, Bryn Mawr is everybody's hospital. A splendid institution, its one ambition is to have your friendship; and to keep pace with the latest medical and scientific discoveries. Its greatest hope is that you'll never need its services—but if you do, just remember Bryn Mawr Hospital is . . . yours!

Troop 47

Friday the 17th, Troop 47 had its first meeting of the season. The meeting was started with a formal opening and the color guards were Ellen May Rushton, Mary McHale and Mary Henshaw. Part of the evening was spent in playing games and the girls seemed to enjoy themselves. We finished the evening planning a hike which we intend to have on Friday the 24th, if the weather permits. The meeting was ended with a goodnight circle.

MARY HENSHAW, Scribe.

Narberth Troop 8 held its first meeting this year Tuesday at the Community Building. After opening the meeting by singing some songs, the troop divided into temporary patrols and elected patrol leaders. In their patrol corners the girls reviewed the tenderfoot knots. They then played some games testing their knowledge.

"MAKE IT SNAPPY... I DRY 'EM FASTER THAN YOU WASH 'EM"

Meet the Thaddeus Thornes . . . in a familiar kitchen-sink scene. Only six months ago Thad grumbled because it took forever to dry dishes. That was before they got an Electric Water Heater. Now he enjoys gloating over his speed. Actually, fast drying is due to piping-hot water.

But Thad gloats even more vigorously over the low cost of heating water electrically. And why not? The special low off-peak rate means he pays only 1c per kilowatt-hour . . . mighty little for the enormous comfort of constant hot water. If you want actual proof of how little it costs many of our customers—call Customer Service and ask for our booklet—"30,000 Philadelphians Can't Be Wrong!"
